

Some of the nation's most respected professionals talk openly about how to approach aging for today's man. If we can't live forever, how can a man live healthier right until take our last breath? Emmy award-winning producer/director Keith Farnie set out on this quest to discover who can help the every day guy on his journey of aging. The production took us from medical laboratories, to the Blue Zone mountains of Sardinia, Italy, and everywhere in between. Along the way, men from all walks of life shared their inner-most thoughts and fears about growing older. You'll laugh, you'll be inspired, but most importantly you will be inspired to embrace your own life's journey on age.
